

HISTORICAL RESEARCH RECRUITMENT

Lesbians' experiences of donor insemination in England between 1970 and 2000***

ARE YOU...

- A lesbian who has used donor insemination?
- Have you helped a lesbian with donor insemination?
- Was it in England at any time between 1970 and 2000?

If you answered yes to these questions, then this project is for you!

I WOULD LIKE TO INTERVIEW...

- A) lesbians who used donor insemination before the year 2000
- and B) anyone who helped lesbians with donor insemination (this may include but is not limited to: helping a partner or friend; health professionals working in public or private settings; sperm bank staff; activists and campaigners)

These oral history interviews form part of a PhD research project that aims to recover the experiences of lesbians who have used donor insemination in various ways, including self insemination and artificial insemination by donor (AID).

This project has ethical approval and funding from the University of Cambridge.

*Lesbian is used as a general term to identify women who are attracted to women. If this is you but you identify in another way, please reach out

Please email the researcher to find out more

Ellen Bridson
eb897@cam.ac.uk