

What makes me, me?

A creative session for children aged 8-12

This is a half day activity run by art therapist Natalie Tayte. Children will get to know each other through games and then do a creative project individually to represent the important elements of their lives - family, other key people, pets, interests, talents. The role and/or place of the donor can be included, as they wish.

This relaxed, fun session will encourage everyone to interpret the idea their own way. They don't have to be 'arty' or creative and lots of resources and support will be available. Also open to non-DC siblings.

DCNETWORK.ORG

What makes me, me?

A creative session for children aged 8-12

- Runs at our in-person conferences
- Half day session for children 8-12yrs
- £50 - materials provided
- Fun and creative
- Small groups
- A great chance to meet others

If your child signs up to this activity, please be aware that donor conception will be integrated into the theme, but it's not the only focus of the session. If you have any questions about the activity, please feel free to email us on enquiries@dcnetwork.org

DCNETWORK.ORG

